Oddfellows Attend Memorial Service

The memorial service held on Sunday in the Westminster Church, to commemorate the members of the Order who had paid the supreme sacrifice in the Great War was attended by a number of the L.O.O.F. and the Rebekahs. Most all of the town members turned out and marched from the Hall to church. The recent rains no doubt prevented many of the country members from attending.

Rev. Millar conducted the service, delivering the following inspiring sermon:

Memorial service for the Oddfellows who fell in the Great War by Rev. W. Millar, Chauvin, Alta.—John 15:13, Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

The service this evening is in memory of the members of the L.O.O.F., who fell in the Great War, the greatest in all history. The members who enlisted and died in the struggle are worthy of such a service. When we consider the vastness of the contest and the tremendous issues at stake, fear that our service may come far short of what it ought to be.

This service illustrates and proves the brotherhood of its members. One of the principles of mans relationship to his fellow man, since the beginning of the world is the principle of brotherhood. The first violation of that law was the murder of Abel by his brother Cain. The discord thrown into the human family at that time has continued ever since. The L.O.O.F. and other fraternal societies attempt to restore this law again among men.

This memorial service proves the patriotism of the society as a whole, and the members who attend such a service show they are one in spirit with those who enlisted for King, Country and modern civilization. Such a service as this tends to cultivate and perpetuate patriotism in this and succeeding generations. The order is doing its share in promoting good citizenship in Canada by its members. Public worship the sacrifice the members who gave their lives in France.

Our coming together in this memorial service shows we appreciate the greatness of the sacrifice our men made in Flanders. We would be well stupid, brutal, if we did not place high value upon the sacrifice of our noble countrymen who devoted their lives to the cause of Christian civilization. It is the most natural thing in the world to give expression to this noble sentiment. It would be a bad thing for us as a nation not to do so.

Saskatchewan Crop Report

What is considered one of the most satisfactory Crop Reports issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Provincial Department of Agriculture was issued today. From all parts of the province reports state that seeding is practically completed and that the recent rains have ensured good moisture conditions. All grains are making good growth and are as far advanced as in average years. Even in those parts of the province where it was feared that at this time reports would be received of damage done by grasshoppers, the opinion prevails that the precautions taken by the farmers aided by municipal and Provincial organizations will be sufficient to hold these pests in check, or at worst, will reduce the damage to a minimum.

Not the least satisfactory part of the report is that the rains have induced a good growth of grass and the stock are fast recovering from the shortage caused by the long winter when it was almost impossible to obtain feed stuffs. In spite of quantities

A Great Industry

No farming has ever been placed upon a basis of solid, sure prosperity equal to that which is established by dairy farming; grain will produce money in chunks when the crop is good but there are many lapses from even average production of grain crops and the lean years pull so hard upon the fat years that the summary up of a five years period of grain often shows an average notable for its the soil, and thus drainage of fertility must be replaced at high cost and often with much difficulty. Further, the grower of grain is haunted by fear or anxiety, caused by frost, drought, blight, pests that are prolific and pernicious: too much rain, rot, rust and all manner of evils that such crops are heir to.

On the other hand dairying, while not without its difficulties, has the virtue of a constructive industry. Keeping cows improves the soil instead of depleting it; even the pastures where the cows run at large get more fertility from year to year and the accumulation of manure at the barns of a dairy farm form a storage of fertilizing substances that has great and actual cash value as well as the priceless quality of conservation of the natural richness of the soil and the power to build up poor soil to the point of crop production in good volume. Cows are real conservators of soil fertility, actual artisans in nature's laboratory of sold structure.

But raising grain is easier than keeping cows and pioneers in a new country are often attracted to that form of agriculture because it is possible to get a grain crop quickly and to get a big crop on new unexhausted soil.

But raising grain is easier than keeping cows and pioneers in a new country are often attracted to that form of agriculture because it is possible to get a grain crop quickly and to get a big crop on new unexhausted soil.

In the end, however, it will be found that something must be done to keep soil fertility up to production pitch and, in general, farming must come to some degree, to the keeping of stock in order that continuity of crops at reasonable cost may be kept up.

Keeping cattle for beef requires a larger range than most farmers can manage and there is the further objection that beef cattle are at large most of the time and no manure is stored up for intensive application to the soil. Dairy cows must be kept in barns much of the time and this fact helps to make dairy farming the greater factor in soil enrichment. Dairy farming is both constructive and intensive; it can be carried on a comparatively small farm or on as large a scale as even very ambitious men desire.

Because of the great natural fertility of Alberta soil, and the need of many farmers in a new country to get a crop at the very earliest moment possible, this province is far from its possibilities in dairy farming, the future contains vastly increased production of all sorts of dairy products in Alberta. The province is wonderfully rich in all qualities that go to make up a dairying district and will certainly measure up to its dairying possibilities as time goes on and the real virtues of dairy farming becomes properly impressed on the minds of the farmers of Alberta.

Considerable progress has been made along this line; progress that marks Alberta as the leading dairying province of Western Canada. The value of Alberta products for 1919 has been placed at $31,625,000, which is a beginning, at least, of the truly great development which will surely come to this branch of agriculture in the province, within the next ten years. The industry is attractive to farmers because of the steady income that results from selling milk and cream and the experience of dairy farmers proves to them the good sense and profit that attend upon that chosen line of agriculture.

But the possibilities of dairy farming in Alberta are well nigh boundless; this is a land of bountiful supply of nature feed for cattle. Summer feed is excellent and winter feed easy to raise or get by other means. If the central and northern parts of the province, there is a plentiful supply of water. Cattle are nicely fitted by nature for seed development of the dairy industry. Man has added an effective system of manipulation, of the gifts bestowed upon Alberta by the lavish hand of nature.

With an area of 254,285 square miles Alberta has an amount of land available for farming purposes that is eighteen per cent. of this is under cultivation and by far most of that is devoted to grain farming. It is easy to see that a present production of $31,625,000 annual revenue from dairy farming yet in its infancy means an enormous amount when the dairy possibilities shall have been developed.

There is still another line to be had upon the matter. The state of New York with an area of 49,170 square miles shows the value of dairy products from the farms of the state in 1918 to be $124,725,347.89. There were 630 cheese factories in the state, 136 butter and cheese factories, 8 cream and powdered milk plants, 213 creameries, 59 condensaries, 633 milk stations, 28 skimming stations, and 19 combination milk stations and condensing plants. With an area of about one-fifth of that of Alberta, New York state produces about five times as much in value of dairy products. Every fifth part of Alberta is capable of doing quite as much as has been done in New York state. All that is necessary is continued and increasing interest in the basic agriculture industry of dairy farming in the province.

It is encouraging to note that the farmers of the province are developing such an interest and are steadfastly staying with the dairy branch of their farm business. Production and business turnover figures of Edmonton dairies show excellent results. Even thus early in the growth of agriculture in Alberta, the men who are engaged in bringing our millions of acres into the production realm of the world, are clearly alive and awake to the prime importance of dairying as a means of making sure, steady money and at the same time placing the agriculture business of the province upon a sound basis.

A farmer of this district told us recently, without the flicker of an eyelid, that the farmers hereabouts will need to provide their cattle with goggles to keep the grass out of their eyes. Which is one way of putting it that the rains are giving luxuriant growth to pasture lands.

It is to the interest of everyone to have Chauvin look neat and clean on Thursday, July 7th and those who have neglected to clean up their premises surely will do so before that date.

The Chauvin celebration will be upon us in a short time. Now is the time for Chauvin people to make a note of the fact to out-of-town friends and remind them that a very few of the celebrations can really be compared with a Chauvin celebration.

And still another of those rains that benefit the country at least a million dollars worth visited this section a few days ago, with the result that the farmers are even more enthusiastic over prospects.

The end of June finds crop conditions everywhere in Chauvin district favorable, if not quite as good as satisfactory as any person could reasonably hope for, infinitely more satisfactory than anybody six weeks ago dared to hope for. Not only are the grain crops doing well, but grass prospects are better this year than in a decade.

It is true that from a few districts in the province adverse crop reports are coming in, but this is a big country, and there must always be areas where, from one cause or another, the farmers are out of luck.

The removal of the duty on cattle from the United States is clearly in the interests of the country under existing circumstances.

Whilst passing a display of hardware in Chauvin, we noticed a washing machine and wringer marked at $15.00. We confess that our sole interest in these machines is to defer the purchase of one as long as possible; or in other words, as long as our better half will keep the peace without one. The sight of this machine called to our mind that the local auctioneers by no means limited his price to $15.00 for a second-hand one. A reference to the catalogue of the biggest mail order house in the west, also showed that it was impossible to lay down a similar machine in Chauvin at a lower price.

One of the most progressive farmers in our district, who is making a specialty of his butter, called at our office to enquire the price of butter paper, printed with name address etc. We figured the job on the basis of cost of material and labor, arriving at a certain figure. Our customer being a keen buyer, compared the price with a small order house, and in giving us the order stated "Well, I save postage and express charges on this job."

If buyers of goods would give the local merchants an opportunity to quote on the complete list, before buying a money order and sealing the envelope, it might quite often be found unnecessary to send away. There are of course, certain articles which the big mail order houses can undersell all competitors. But the number of these is much smaller than it is commonly imagined. Then too, as a matter of economy in buying, it is a rule that articles bought in certain defined quantities are purchasable at lower rates than in small parcels. Packing and selling expenses determine this. There are too, certain things the local merchant cannot always keep upon his shelves. But he can, and will, obtain them, and as quickly as you can. When you place a list of bulk goods before a merchant he is able to effect savings that are impossible in smaller purchases; and if the local merchant can, as we are assured he mostly always can, give a quotation reasonably close he should be given the opportunity to supply. A profit made near home is of greater use to you than a profit made further away.

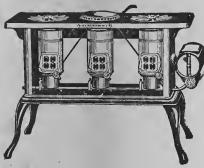

Grass, grass everywhere. There is an abundance of feed everywhere in the district and the hay crop will be one of the largest ever harvested. The appearance of the country reminds one of the old years. Sloughs, which have been dry for several years, are filling up again and the country is one mass of green herbage. It is really refreshing to take a trip through the district this summer, when compared with a similar trip last year.

The Chauvin district has always been known as a big grain producing community. Its rich fertile soil and other resources are becoming known far and wide. This year, however, all records promise to be eclipsed and the district will set the pace for grain production which will be very hard to follow.

When the people are exhorted to economize, when they are being taxed to a point where it hurts, and when more money is needed for numerous urgent matters, the spectacle of parliament sitting down to vote itself $500,000 could not but have a bad effect on the public mind.

Alberta is rapidly getting into her stride in butter production after a very late start and there should be a lot of high class butter produced for the remainder of the season.

ARTLAND ARGUS

Tomorrow the 24th instant will be a great day for sports and a dance, to be held by the Battle Hill Athletic Association.

Dominion Day Picnic at Manitou Lake this year promises to be an unusually big affair.

The program, as usual, in the hands of strong committees, offers the prospect of a most agreeable day for everyone, and if the rain holds off for the occasion, the whole thing should "go" with more than the usual "vim" generally associated with this feature.

We are given to understand that Mr. Martin, the leader of the Regina house proposes to pay us a visit on the above occasion.

We will receive a cordial welcome, we are sure, and give up the latest news, of the CutKnife extension, not forgetting, of course, to drop a hint as to the date of the next general election.

It is gratifying to note the following remark in a leader of the Saskatchewan Star of the 14th instant. "The Star looks to the latter (the Farmers' Progressive Party) to carry a majority of its seats in the western constituencies on a policy of free trade."

Two special westbound trains last Wednesday refreshed themselves at the tank. They carried a somewhat eccentric looking, but extremely festive crowd, with white caps, red tassels—quite in style.

Mrs. Hilkir informs us that they are "Shriners" whatever that means, jovially steering for the Pacific coast.

Not many visitors here these dungays.

In one sense this is no longer a "dry country"! But that's all right—crops and coin tomorrow, and then we'll all be happy.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the frantic struggle of the grain trade to have the wheat board closed down this season will fail.

If the wheat board is continued, the grower will rake in all that should come to him.

We note that the rural mail boxes are rolling in at a fine rate.

The hearts of all those people on the route will soon rejoice no doubt correspondence.

Geo Langly in his recent fine address at Bradwell, on the grain growers Association and other kindred masters, made a fine point when he said:

"The more the middleman takes for his share, the less there is for the producer, and the heavier the price for the consumer."

The Hon. George possesses the excellent faculty of always apparently being able to hit the right nail on the head!

Ancient and Modern

The Modern; Artland Station on the road to Calgary: time A.D. 1920. "Changing planes in mid-air. Auto polo—the climax of dangerous sport."

Come early and get a good seat! One is tempted to exclaim while looking at the flaming poster in Artland Station, that verily, the old instincts never die—yesterday (today) or tomorrow.

The Ancient: A wayside inn on the road to Rome—time B.C. 100.

The lions have been kept hungry. The lions will play with, and finally eat, an outfit of men and women in the arena next week.

MARSDEN MURMURS

We are sure glad to hear that Mrs. Jim Gordon has come successfully through her operation, which was a very serious one.

We are expressing the voice of the whole community in wishing her a speedy return to health and to our midst.

We hear that there is to be a School exhibition in this district, this year and that prizes amounting to some $300 will be given. Here's hoping that some of the Manitou boys and girls will bring some of these prizes home.

Mr. W. M. Gibbard has been making the dust, or we should say the mud, fly these days, having six outfit working on his farm.

Who was it said we needed moisture? No doubt you are a people! Oh Manitou citizens!! And wisdom will die with you!!!

MUSTAPURA.

Oddfellows Attend Memorial Service

(Continued from front page) They laid upon the altar comfort, home, friends, country, world's welfare and future prospects for us who continued in the full enjoyment of all blessings, and we would surely ourselves, did we not show our gratitude. This service shows that the good that men do lives after them, or in words of Holy Writ, their works do of our valiant dead will live as long as Canada and the world endures. Should occasion again arise, which God forbid, other Canadians inspired by our noble dead will spring to arms in defence of their homes. Our histories will be enriched by the never permanently lost a gun, nor gave up a position they captured and consolidated. Their influence will be projected into the future resulting in dead odds and self-sacrifice for noble ends.

The bond of unity in the society must be strong, and it will become stronger, by giving vent to its feelings. This bond gives permanence to the association, and its prosperity will be in proportion to the strength of this bond.

I see in this service an honest endeavor to carry out the principles of the order. The great underlying principle is brotherhood upon which are based the other principles. The members show they recognize their duty to the living members, but also to the dead who did not lose their lives but gave them. They did not fight and die for self, but for others that they might continue to enjoy all the blessings that man holds dear, the brethren who died made a rich contribution to the idea of brotherhood.

What can we contribute to this end are trying to do what Christ tried to do in His day.

The duty of Christians is to get all men to adopt the Christian conception of brotherhood. When all men, as individuals and nations, receive it as a principle to live by then ways shall cease, and men "will order o'er shall brothers be and a' that!"

The only successful method is to take Christ into our lives. Then it will be natural to carry out His teaching—moral, because we shall have a brotherly attitude, an attitude towards all men. This is the spirit which Christ seeks to implant into the soul of our hearts. It is an inward not an outward force.

It was resolved to form a committee grading the coules of North of sec. 44-27-3.

The question of the taxation of the stock-in-trade of merchants doing business in the municipality, both in Hamlets and otherwise was discussed and it was decided to write the Department requesting a ruling on this point, also as to whether Bank Buildings and fixtures were liable for taxation.

Farmers Convention At Wainwright

The annual convention of the Battle River Riding U.F.A. Political organization closed Wednesday at 4 o'clock after four sessions commencing Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The convention was not so well attended as last year, there being only 68 locals represented out of 193 organized in the riding; 167 delegates were present, and about 300 visitors.

Mr. A. C. Muir of Provost, the president of the association, was chairman of all sessions. Mr. Kenneth Watson of Provost being secretary. The sessions of Wednesday were given to the consideration of reports of the president and secretary and the directors of six provincial constituencies within the riding. It was remarked that the extraordinary winter and late spring had interfered greatly with the work of organizing new territory and spreading the propaganda of the Farmers' movement.

The meetings of Thursday were taken up by election of officers, passing of amendment to the constitution resolutions, and the nominations of the candidate for Battle River at the next election.

Mr. A. C. Muir begged to retire from the presidency, saying that he would not accept the position for another year for personal reasons. Much pressure was exerted to persuade him to accept renomination, but he declined.

The chief interest of the convention lay in the unanimous renomination of Mr. Henry E. Spencer as the U. F. A. candidate for the riding.

A thunder storm accompanied by heavy and long continued rain visited us on Wednesday night. The rainfall was the heaviest we have had for a considerable time and was very general over this part of the province.

A. J. ROBINSON,
E. C. D. BUILDING CHAUVIN

Easier Said Than Done

Wild oats are a typical annual weed and incidentally one of the worst we have. The first and most important measure of control is to stop sowing them a measure that is easy to plan, but difficult to put in practice. The second is to prevent their introduction to the farm in feed, in threshing machines by wandering stock etc. The third is to prevent them from going to seed by (a) double disk or plowing shallow early in the fall, so as to encourage germination and subsequent death by freezing; (b) killing as many as possible in the fallow year by discing after the first growth starts in the spring, and plowing after the seed-growth starts; and (c) growing a crop that may be harvested after the wild oats mature.

The above practices may be followed on any grain farm with no serious alteration of cropping plans and no lessening of the acreage sown. If the weeds are so prevalent that these measures are insufficient several other may be followed. Winter rye may be sown on the fallow to smother the oats the following year; or, if the stand of rye is thinned out and wild oats grow the crop may be cut for hay before the oats ripen. Early barley may be sown in the spring after a crop of wild oats has been killed by thorough discing or shallow plowing; and the barley may be cut for hay if the weeds develop, or left for grain if they do not. Early fall cultivation after this crop, provided there is sufficient moisture, will start many of the oats still in the soil. A potato crop may be used instead of rye or barley and with better results. If these measures do not result in more or less complete eradication, tame grasses should be sown and left down for two years or more, and a year taken to break up the land before the next crop is put in.

amount in using Paris green, add one pound of freshly slaked lime to one pound of Paris green and mix in fifty gallons of water.

Boost With Judgement

Chauvin has now arrived at a point in its development when it behoves every citizen to boost, and boost with judgement. We don't want to see any line of business overdone but we desire to see each one prosper.

A town that is overdone in any one line of business cannot prosper as will the town where the is the proper proportion. We should not encourage any man to locate here to engage in any business already sufficiently represented, but if any new business seeks a location and there is a demand for that business, let us give it all the encouragement and patronage we can after it is located. There are many ways to boost a town.

Useful Publications

The new list of publications of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa contains titles of nearly three hundred and fifty bulletins, circulars, and other pamphlets that deal with agricultural practices. These cover the whole range of agricultural and horticultural pursuits, including dairying, field crops, live stock, orchard and garden crops, poultry, insects and the diseases of plants, farm building construction, farm machinery and other topics. The subjects are arranged alphabetically under general titles. Not only are the lists themselves available from the Publications Branch of the Department but any of the publications therein contained.

Short Weight Butter

The outcome of the recent case which was in the Calgary courts over selling short weight butter, resulted in the retailers being dismissed because it could not be shown that they were aware that the butter was not under weight at the time the butter was "moulded or cut". This places the onus of light weight butter on the dairy farmers and in all probability the government inspectors will now check them up more closely—so be warned in time.

There is a provision in the act which could be made to govern the case. That is to have the name of the maker printed on the wrapper which at present must be put around the prints and which have to be printed with the words "Dairy Butter".

At present it is optional with the maker as to whether the name is put on the butter or not. If it were compulsory the makers of good butter would be able to get a better price for their product and it would also be a check upon those who are getting the dairy farmers generally into disrepute by selling short weight prints.

Hot Lunch For Rural School Children

Co-operation of Parents and

Teachers All That is Needed

To Secure This Reform

The rural hot lunch has been tried

in many schools throughout Western

Canada, and found to be most successful. There is no reason why every school should not make use of its possibilities through the interest and

co-operation of the teachers and parents. Of course, where pupils are able to go home for the noonday

meals this would not be necessary,

but during the cold winter days and

where the children live great distances

from school, the noonday lunch is one of the most vital problems to be considered by those who are most interested in the best all-round development of our boys and girls.

In speaking on this subject Elizabeth Whitwell, B.S., says:

"The child must have a certain amount of food each day. The breakfast is usually eaten in many instances, and is a light meal. The evening meal is generally moderate, so that the child is largely dependent upon the noon meal for the larger part of his daily food requirements. If this noon meal is cold and dry, with little variety, it is no wonder that many of the sandwiches may be found in the waste-paper basket at the end of the lunch hour."

"The school lunch does not, how-

1. A large portion of plain, nutri-

3. A sweet food, as plain candy, cookies, cakes, custard, pudding, etc.

Hot Lunch For Rural School Children

Co-operation of Parents and

Teachers All That is Needed

To Secure This Reform

The rural hot lunch has been tried

in many schools throughout Western

Canada, and found to be most successful. There is no reason why every school should not make use of its

possibilities through the interest and

co-operation of the teachers and parents. Of course, where pupils are able to go home for the noonday

meals this would not be necessary,

but during the cold winter days and

where the children live great distances

from school, the noonday lunch is one

of the most vital problems to be considered by those who are most interested in the best all-round development of our boys and girls.

In speaking on this subject Elizabeth Whitwell, B.S., says:

"The child must have a certain amount of food each day. The breakfast is usually eaten in many instan-cies, and is a light meal. The evening meal is generally moderate, so that

the child is largely dependent upon

the noon meal for the larger part of his daily food requirements. If

this noon meal is cold and dry, with

little variety, it is no wonder that

many of the sandwiches may be found

in the waste-paper basket at the end

of the lunch hour."

"The school lunch does not, however, lessen the amount of food that is to be sent from home, but helps the child to eat what is given him, and also to add to the lunch provided him from home.

"The child's lunch from home should contain:

1. A large portion of plain, nutritious and mild-flavored food, chiefly lettuce, etc.

by Bill Wright who throughout played a great game at left back. After mid-field play, the ball was carried again into Manitou territory where Beatty, Mills and Guthrie had made good attempts at goal, but Lewis the goalie was in great form and saved what looked like sure goals time after time. Manitou brake away and raided Chauvin goal but shot by. From the kick of the ball was carried to Manitou and Hawthorn fastened on it and put the ball past Lewis for the first goal. The teams crossed over and Chauvin now had a deal more of the game. Manitou shewing signs of being out of condition, Guthrie therefore scored a peach of a goal receiving the ball from Mills, he raced for goal beating halves and backs and sent in a hot one that Lewis had no earthly chance with. Mills put on another soon after and from a mix-up in front of goal Mathison received the ball from Beatty and put on the fourth and final score.

Manitou put up a good game in the first half but condition told in the second. Their centre shewed excellently until he got a rap on the ankle which put him out of the game.

Chauvin vs Wainwright

Chauvin went up by car to Wainwright on Wednesday, June 16th and played a game the same evening.

On account of the wet condition of the grounds and the threatening look of the weather 20 minutes each way was agreed to be played.

Chauvin kicked off with the wind and immediately began bombarding their opponents goal. All the forward had a pop at it one after the other. Eventually Bert Johnson put in a shot from right half which the goalie only partially cleared and Guthrie came in at a great pace from right wing and banged it through, giving the goalie no chance of saving. Six minutes after Pearch slammed the goalie just reached but could not stop. Chauvin lead at half time 2-0.

On changing ends the weather got worse and it commenced to rain and heavy clouds came up from the southwest. Wainwright made several break aways as did Chauvin, but neither side were able to score. Seven minutes before time was up a deluge of rain struck the grounds and the game was called off with the final score.
